The Local Government Ombudsman's Annual Letter South Bedfordshire District Council

for the year ended 31 March 2007

The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) investigates complaints by members of the public who consider that they have been caused injustice through administrative fault by local authorities and certain other bodies. The LGO also uses the findings from investigation work to help authorities provide better public services through initiatives such as special reports, training and annual letters.

Annual Letter 2006/07 - Introduction

The aim of the annual letter is to provide a summary of information on the complaints about your authority that we have received and try to draw any lessons learned about the authority's performance and complaint-handling arrangements. These might then be fed back into service improvement.

I hope that the letter will be a useful addition to other information your authority holds on how people experience or perceive your services.

There are two attachments which form an integral part of this letter: statistical data covering a three year period and a note to help the interpretation of the statistics.

Complaints received

Volume

We received 15 complaints during the year, broadly in line with the numbers of complaints in the previous two years.

Character

Eight complaints were received about planning, and three about housing. The other four complaints were about benefits, public finance, commercial and waste management.

Decisions on complaints

Reports and local settlements

We use the term 'local settlement' to describe the outcome of a complaint where, during the course of our investigation, the Council takes, or agrees to take, some action which we consider is a satisfactory response to the complaint and the investigation does not need to be completed. These form a significant proportion of the complaints we determine. When we complete an investigation we must issue a report.

I issued no reports against the Council but one complaint was settled. This concerned a failure to identify a faulty boiler until after the tenant had moved into the property; and then a failure to provide heaters for two weeks while the boiler was repaired. The Council had already agreed to refund one week's rent but in response to my investigation agreed to refund a further week making the compensation paid £66. I am grateful that the Council was able to settle this complaint.

Other findings

Thirteen complaints were decided during the year. Of these five were premature, one was settled, as I refer to above, in two we decided there was no maladministration and the remaining five were not pursued for various reasons.

Your Council's complaints procedure and handling of complaints

The number of premature complaints, five out 15 received, is similar to the national average of 28%. This suggests that the Council has an effective mechanism of capturing complaints and resolving them. And the small numbers of complaints upheld in recent years also supports the view that the Council's complaints handling works well.

Training in complaint handling

As part of our role to provide advice in good administrative practice, we offer training courses for all levels of local authority staff in complaints handling and investigation. The feedback from courses that have been delivered over the past two and a half years is very positive.

The range of courses is expanding in response to demand. In addition to the generic Good Complaint Handing (identifying and processing complaints) and Effective Complaint Handling (investigation and resolution) we can run open courses for groups of staff from smaller authorities and also customise courses to meet your Council's specific requirements.

All courses are presented by an experienced investigator so participants benefit from their knowledge and expertise of complaint handling.

I have enclosed some information on the full range of courses available together with contact details for enquiries and any further bookings.

Liaison with the Local Government Ombudsman

We made enquiries on four complaints this year, and the average time to respond was 27 days which is within our requested 28 days. It is slightly down from the excellent 22 days in the previous year but is still a commendable achievement and I thank the Council for its continuing efforts to assist in enabling me to provide a speedy response to complainants.

LGO developments

I thought it would be helpful to update you on a project we are implementing to improve the first contact that people have with us as part of our customer focus initiative. We are developing a new Access and Advice Service that will provide a gateway to our services for all complainants and enquirers. It will be mainly telephone-based but will also deal with email, text and letter correspondence. As the project progresses we will keep you informed about developments and expected timescales.

Changes brought about by the Local Government Bill are also expected to impact on the way that we work and again we will keep you informed as relevant.

We have just issued a special report that draws on our experience of dealing with complaints about planning applications for phone masts considered under the prior approval system, which can be highly controversial. We recommend simple measures that councils can adopt to minimise the problems that can occur.

A further special report will be published in July focusing on the difficulties that can be encountered when complaints are received by local authorities about services delivered through a partnership. Local partnerships and citizen redress sets out our advice and guidance on how these problems can be overcome by adopting good governance arrangements that include an effective complaints protocol.

Conclusions and general observations

I welcome this opportunity to give you my reflections about the complaints my office has dealt with over the past year. I hope that you find the information and assessment provided useful when seeking improvements to your Council's services.
