The Local Government Ombudsman's Annual Letter

Redcar & Cleveland Council

for the year ended
31 March 2008

The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) provides a free, independent and impartial service. We consider complaints about the administrative actions of councils and some other authorities. We cannot question what a council has done simply because someone does not agree with it. If we find something has gone wrong, such as poor service, service failure, delay or bad advice, and that a person has suffered as a result, the Ombudsmen aim to get it put right by recommending a suitable remedy. The LGO also uses the findings from investigation work to help authorities provide better public services through initiatives such as special reports, training and annual letters.

Annual Letter 2007/08 - Introduction

This annual letter provides a summary of the complaints received about Redcar and Cleveland Council and comments on the authority's performance and complaint-handling arrangements.

I hope that the letter will assist you in improving services by providing a useful perspective on how some people who are dissatisfied experience or perceive your services.

Two attachments form an integral part of this letter: statistical data covering a three year period and a note to help the interpretation of the statistics.

Complaints received

Volume

Last year 40 complaints were received against the Council, marginally more than during the previous year (38) but fewer than in the year before (46).

Character

During the last three years exactly nine complaints have been received about public finance. Another nine were received about the benefits system, six more than during the previous year. Complaints about planning have, however, fallen from 10 in 2005/06 to only four last year.

Liaison with the Local Government Ombudsman

The time taken during the last three years to respond to my first enquiries upon complaints have steadily risen from an average of 22 calendar days to 32 calendar days. Generally 40% of councils like Redcar & Cleveland respond to such enquiries within an average of 28 calendar days. It is to be hoped that the Council may be among their number next year.

Decisions on complaints

Decisions were taken upon 47 complaints last year. Just over a third of these (17) were premature complaints, where the Council had not yet had a proper chance to deal with the complaint itself. Another 13 lay outside my jurisdiction, while in a further 13 cases I chose not to pursue my investigations because, for example, I had found no maladministration.

Reports and local settlements

We will often discontinue enquires into a complaint when a council takes or agrees to take action that we consider to be a satisfactory response – we call these local settlements. In 2007/08 the Local Government Ombudsmen determined 27% of complaints by local settlement (excluding 'premature' complaints - where councils have not had a proper chance to deal with them - and those outside our jurisdiction).

Last year four complaints were locally settled and payments totalling £850 were made to four complainants. The largest payment was £400 concerning local taxation where the Council had given incorrect information to the complainant, and had unreasonably delayed in its processing of its student exemption certificate. In another case the Council failed to pay housing benefit directly to landlord.

If an investigation is completed I issue a public report.

Training in complaint handling

Part of our role is to provide advice and guidance about good administrative practice. We offer training courses for all levels of local authority staff in complaints handling and investigation. A detailed evaluation of the training provided to councils over the past three years shows very high levels of satisfaction.

The range of courses is expanding in response to demand. In addition to Good Complaint Handling (identifying and processing complaints) and Effective Complaint Handling (investigation and resolution) we now offer these courses specifically for social services staff and a course on reviewing complaints for social care review panel members. We will customise courses to meet your Council's specific requirements and provide courses for groups of staff from different smaller authorities.

Participants benefit from the complaint-handling knowledge and expertise of the experienced investigators who present the courses.

I enclose information on the full range of courses available together with contact details for enquiries and any further bookings.

LGO developments

We launched the LGO Advice Team in April, providing a first contact service for all enquirers and new complainants. Demand for the service has been high. Our team of advisers, trained to provide comprehensive information and advice, has dealt with many thousands of calls since the service started.

The team handles complaints submitted by telephone, email or text, as well as in writing. This new power to accept complaints other than in writing was one of the provisions of the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act, which also came into force in April. Our experience of implementing other provisions in the Act, such as complaints about service failure and apparent maladministration, is being kept under review and will be subject to further discussion. Any feedback from your Council would be welcome.

Last year we published two special reports providing advice and guidance on 'applications for prior approval of telecommunications masts' and 'citizen redress in local partnerships'. Feedback on special reports is always welcome. I would particularly appreciate information on complaints protocols in the governance arrangements of partnerships with which your Council is involved.

Conclusions and general observations

I welcome this opportunity to comment on our experience of complaints about the Council over the past year. I hope that you find the information and assessment provided useful when seeking improvements to your Council's services.
