

The Commission for Local Administration in England

The Local Government Ombudsman's
Annual Letter
Allerdale Borough Council for the year ended
31 March 2007

The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) investigates complaints by members of the public who consider that they have been caused injustice through administrative fault by local authorities and certain other bodies. The LGO also uses the findings from investigation work to help authorities provide better public services through initiatives such as special reports, training and annual letters.

Annual Letter 2006/07 - Introduction

This annual letter provides a summary of the complaints we have received about your authority. Where possible, we comment on the authority's performance and complaint-handling arrangements to assist with your service improvement.

I hope that the letter will be a useful addition to other information your authority holds on how people experience or perceive your services.

Two attachments form an integral part of this letter: statistical data covering a three year period and a note to help the interpretation of the statistics.

Complaints received

Volume

Last year 15 complaints were received against the Council, comparing favourably with 26 during the previous year and 19 during the year before that.

Character

As in the two previous years the majority of these (eight or just over half) were about planning matters.

Decisions on complaints

Reports and local settlements

A 'local settlement' is a complaint that is resolved by the Council taking, or agreeing to take, action which we consider is a satisfactory response to the complaint so that the investigation can be discontinued. In 2006/07 27.7% of complaints dealt with by the three Local Government Ombudsmen (excluding premature and those outside jurisdiction) were resolved by local settlement. When we complete an investigation we must issue a report.

Last year there were neither local settlements reached upon any complaints, nor were there any complaints upon which a report was issued.

Other findings

A total of 13 complaints were decided, of which nearly half (six) were premature complaints, in the sense that the Council had not yet had a proper opportunity to consider those complaints, and in four complaints no maladministration was found.

Your Council's complaints procedure and handling of complaints

I was pleased to note that the Council's complaints procedure is clearly outlined upon the Internet, and that there is there a clear link to the Commission's own website, which is therefore also readily accessible to any complainant choosing to use the services offered by my office.

Training in complaint handling

Part of our role is to provide advice and guidance about good administrative practice. We offer training courses for all levels of local authority staff in complaints handling and investigation. The feedback from councils that have taken up the training is very positive.

The range of courses is expanding in response to demand and in addition to the generic Good Complaint Handling (identifying and processing complaints) and Effective Complaint Handling (investigation and resolution), we can run open courses for groups of staff from smaller authorities and also customise courses to meet your Council's specific requirements.

All courses are presented by an experienced investigator so participants benefit from their knowledge and expertise of complaint handling.

I have enclosed some information on the full range of courses available together with contact details for enquiries and any further bookings.

I am aware of the possibility of Cumbrian councils organising training collectively, and I hope these efforts may come to fruition during the coming year.

Liaison with the Local Government Ombudsman

I am pleased to note the speed with which the Council has once again responded to the first enquiries made by my investigators upon complaints, this year within an average of just under 18 calendar days, an average of four days less than last year's impressive performance of only 22 calendar days. Only 50% of district councils generally respond in less than 28 days to my enquiries, and I am pleased that Allerdale Borough Council remains at the quickest end of this spectrum.

During the year you welcomed the Assistant Ombudsman who now leads the team of investigators dealing with complaints against your Council. This visit was a useful opportunity to explain changes within the Commission's structure, procedures and objectives; discuss complaints; consider training and to meet the staff who deal with our enquiries. I hope that the relationship will continue to be constructive.

LGO developments

You may be interested in the development of our initiative to improve the first contact that people have with us. A new Access and Advice Service will provide a gateway to our services for all complainants and enquirers. It will encourage telephone contact but will also deal with email, text and letter correspondence. We will let you have further details about how it will operate and the expected timescales and discuss with you the implications for the Council.

I hope you have received our latest special report about telecommunications masts. It draws on our experience of dealing with complaints about planning applications for masts which can be highly controversial. We recommend simple measures that councils can adopt to minimise the chances of maladministration occurring.

In July we will be publishing a special report about the difficulties that can be encountered with complaints when local authorities deliver services or discharge their functions through partnerships. Local partnerships and citizen redress provides advice and guidance on how these problems can be overcome by good governance arrangements that include an effective complaints protocol.

Conclusions and general observations

I welcome this opportunity to comment on our experience of complaints about the Council over the past year. I hope that you find the information and assessment provided useful when seeking improvements to your Council's services.
