

The Commission for Local Administration in England

The Local Government Ombudsman's
Annual Letter
Wyre Forest District Council for the year ended
31 March 2007

The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) investigates complaints by members of the public who consider that they have been caused injustice through administrative fault by local authorities and certain other bodies. The LGO also uses the findings from investigation work to help authorities provide better public services through initiatives such as special reports, training and annual letters.

Annual Letter 2006/07 - Introduction

The aim of the annual letter is to provide a summary of information on the complaints about your authority that we have received and try to draw any lessons learned about the authority's performance and complaint-handling arrangements. These might then be fed back into service improvement.

I hope that the letter will be a useful addition to other information your authority holds on how people experience or perceive your services.

There are two attachments which form an integral part of this letter: statistical data covering a three year period and a note to help the interpretation of the statistics.

Complaints received

Volume

We received 15 complaints during the year, an increase from the seven received in the previous year.

Character

The number of complaints about planning increased from three to seven. Three of these, however, were about the same development. There was no significant increase in other subject areas. We expect numbers of complaints to vary from year to year, and although there has been an upward trend in recent years the overall numbers remain small.

Decisions on complaints

Reports and local settlements

We use the term 'local settlement' to describe the outcome of a complaint where, during the course of our investigation, the Council takes, or agrees to take, some action which we consider is a satisfactory response to the complaint and the investigation does not need to be completed. These form a significant proportion of the complaints we determine. When we complete an investigation we must issue a report. I issued no reports against the Council.

One complaint was settled locally. The Council acted promptly to invite the complainant to submit a renumbering application for his house at no charge. I saw no need to request compensation from the Council in this case.

Other findings

Sixteen complaints were decided during the year. Of these one was outside my jurisdiction. Six were premature and, as I mentioned earlier, one was settled locally. The remaining eight were not pursued because no evidence of maladministration was seen or because it was decided for other reasons not to pursue them.

Your Council's complaints procedure and handling of complaints

The number of premature complaints has risen from none last year to six this year, but three of these concerned the same matter. Of the six complaints referred back to you as premature, only one was resubmitted to me, indicating good complaint-handling by the Council.

I noted in last year's letter that it would be helpful if complainants could be given a direct link to my website. I am pleased to note that the Council has acted on my suggestion.

Training in complaint handling

As part of our role to provide advice in good administrative practice, we offer training courses for all levels of local authority staff in complaints handling and investigation. The feedback from courses that have been delivered over the past two and a half years is very positive.

The range of courses is expanding in response to demand. In addition to the generic Good Complaint Handling (identifying and processing complaints) and Effective Complaint Handling (investigation and resolution) we can run open courses for groups of staff from smaller authorities and also customise courses to meet your Council's specific requirements.

All courses are presented by an experienced investigator so participants benefit from their knowledge and expertise of complaint handling.

I have enclosed some information on the full range of courses available together with contact details for enquiries and any further bookings.

We have not delivered any formal training courses to your Council this year. If we can provide any further training for you please let Reynold Stephen, Assistant Ombudsman, know.

Liaison with the Local Government Ombudsman

We made enquiries on seven complaints this year, and the average time for responding was 28.6 days. This is a small improvement on the previous year's average of 29 days and very close to meeting our target of 28 days. This was met in all subject areas except Planning and Building Control and Transport and Highways. I am grateful for all the Council's efforts here.

LGO developments

I thought it would be helpful to update you on a project we are implementing to improve the first contact that people have with us as part of our customer focus initiative. We are developing a new Access and Advice Service that will provide a gateway to our services for all complainants and enquirers. It will be mainly telephone-based but will also deal with email, text and letter correspondence. As the project progresses we will keep you informed about developments and expected timescales.

Changes brought about by the Local Government Bill are also expected to impact on the way that we work and again we will keep you informed as relevant.

We have just issued a special report that draws on our experience of dealing with complaints about planning applications for phone masts considered under the prior approval system, which can be highly controversial. We recommend simple measures that councils can adopt to minimise the problems that can occur.

A further special report will be published in July focusing on the difficulties that can be encountered when complaints are received by local authorities about services delivered through a partnership. Local partnerships and citizen redress sets out our advice and guidance on how these problems can be overcome by adopting good governance arrangements that include an effective complaints protocol.

Conclusions and general observations

I welcome this opportunity to give you my reflections about the complaints my office has dealt with over the past year. I hope that you find the information and assessment provided useful when seeking improvements to your Council's services.
