The Local Government Ombudsman's Annual Letter

East Dorset District Council

for the year ended
31 March 2008

The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) provides a free, independent and impartial service. We consider complaints about the administrative actions of councils and some other authorities. We cannot question what a council has done simply because someone does not agree with it. If we find something has gone wrong, such as poor service, service failure, delay or bad advice, and that a person has suffered as a result, the Ombudsmen aim to get it put right by recommending a suitable remedy. The LGO also uses the findings from investigation work to help authorities provide better public services through initiatives such as special reports, training and annual letters.

Annual Letter 2007/08 - Introduction

This annual letter provides a summary of the complaints we have received about East Dorset District Council. We have included comments on the authority's performance and complaint-handling arrangements, where possible, so they can assist with your service improvement.

I hope that the letter will be a useful addition to other information your authority holds on how people experience or perceive your services.

Two attachments form an integral part of this letter: statistical data covering a three year period and a note to help the interpretation of the statistics.

Complaints received

Volume

We received eight complaints against your Council during the year, fewer than in each of the two previous years. We expect to see small fluctuations from year to year.

Character

Five complaints were about Planning matters, two about Benefits and one about electoral registration. This pattern is similar to previous years and is not unusual for authorities outside large urban areas. The numbers are small so more detailed analysis would be unlikely to be of any value.

Decisions on complaints

Reports and local settlements

When we complete an investigation we issue a report. I issued no reports against your Council during the year.

A 'local settlement' is a complaint where, during the course of our investigation, the Council has agreed to take some action which we consider is a satisfactory response to the complaint. The investigation is then discontinued. In 2007/08 the Local Government Ombudsmen determined some 27% of complaints by local settlement (excluding 'premature' complaints - where councils have not had a proper chance to deal with them - and those outside our jurisdiction).

One complaint was the subject of a local settlement during the year. The Council took twelve months to determine a Housing Benefit application which involved a complex set of circumstances and information. In spite of the complexity, the delay was unacceptable, and the Council recognised this by paying the complainant £300. I am grateful for its willingness to take this action and allow the complaint to be resolved without the need for a complete investigation.

Other findings

No complaints were treated as premature and referred back to your Council so that they could first be considered through your Council's complaints procedure.

In five cases I took the view that the matters complained of were outside my jurisdiction.

The remaining four complaints were not pursued because no evidence of maladministration was seen or because it was decided for other reasons not to pursue them, mainly because no significant injustice flowed from the fault alleged.

Your Council's complaints procedure and handling of complaints

No complaint which had previously been referred back to the Council was re-submitted to my office. This would suggest that your Council has a complaints procedure which is accessible to your citizens and which is effective in resolving complaints.

Liaison with the Local Government Ombudsman

Enquiries were made on only three complaints during the year. Your Council's average response time of 20 days is marginally shorter than in previous years and within my target timescale of 28 days. Although one response took significantly longer, it fell over a holiday period and would not appear to be typical. I am very grateful for your achievements in this area.

Sometimes, more straightforward enquiries, perhaps dealing with only a single question, can be made and responded to by e-mail or telephone. In one case during the year a brief telephone discussion between a senior officer of the Council and my office meant that the matter was resolved quickly without the need for formal enquiries. Such flexibility of approach is commendable.

From time to time we hold a seminar here in Coventry for Council officers designated as the link between your Council and my office. I see that one of your officers attended three years ago, and I hope it was helpful. The feedback we receive from delegates is very positive and the seminars are seen as a useful way of improving practice for the benefit of your officers and for improving service to people who find they need to make complaints. If your Council would be interested in sending someone to the next seminar please contact my office for more information.

Training in complaint handling

Part of our role is to provide advice and guidance about good administrative practice. We offer training courses for all levels of local authority staff in complaints handling and investigation. This year we carried out a detailed evaluation of the training with councils that have been trained over the past three years. The results are very positive.

The range of courses is expanding in response to demand. In addition to the generic Good Complaint Handling (identifying and processing complaints) and Effective Complaint Handling (investigation and resolution) we now offer these courses specifically for social services staff and a course on reviewing complaints for social care review panel members. We can run open courses for groups of staff from different smaller authorities and also customise courses to meet your Council's specific requirements.

All courses are presented by an experienced investigator so participants benefit from their knowledge and expertise of complaint handling.

I have enclosed some information on the full range of courses available together with contact details for enquiries and any further bookings.

LGO developments

We launched the LGO Advice Team in April 2008, providing a first contact service for all enquirers and new complainants. Demand for the service has been high. Our team of advisers, trained to provide comprehensive information and advice, has dealt with many thousands of calls since the service started.

The team handles complaints submitted by telephone, email or text, as well as in writing. This new power to accept complaints other than in writing was one of the provisions of the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act 2007, which also came into force in April 2008. Our experience of implementing other provisions in the Act, such as complaints about service failure and apparent maladministration, is being kept under review and will be subject to further discussion. Any feedback from your Council would be welcome.

Last year we published two special reports providing advice and guidance on 'applications for prior approval of telecommunications masts' and 'citizen redress in local partnerships'. I would appreciate your feedback on these, particularly on any complaints protocols put in place as part of the overall governance arrangements for partnerships your Council has set up.

Conclusions and general observations

I welcome this opportunity to give you my reflections about the complaints my office has dealt with over the past year. I hope that you find the information and assessment provided useful when seeking improvements to your Council's services.
