The Local Government Ombudsman's Annual Letter

Oadby and Wigston

Borough Council

for the year ended
31 March 2008

The Local Government Ombudsman (LGO) provides a free, independent and impartial service. We consider complaints about the administrative actions of councils and some other authorities. We cannot question what a council has done simply because someone does not agree with it. If we find something has gone wrong, such as poor service, service failure, delay or bad advice, and that a person has suffered as a result, the Ombudsmen aim to get it put right by recommending a suitable remedy. The LGO also uses the findings from investigation work to help authorities provide better public services through initiatives such as special reports, training and annual letters.

Annual Letter 2007/08 - Introduction

This annual letter provides a summary of the complaints we have received about Oadby and Wigston Borough Council. We have included comments on the authority's performance and complaint-handling arrangements, where possible, so they can assist with your service improvement.

I hope that the letter will be a useful addition to other information your authority holds on how people experience or perceive your services.

Two attachments form an integral part of this letter: statistical data covering a three year period and a note to help the interpretation of the statistics.

Complaints received

Volume

Nine complaints were received against your Council this year, eight more than last year but a similar number as in 2005-2006. We expect to see variations in complaint numbers from year to year and I see nothing significant in the increase.

Character

Three complaints were received about transport and highways, two about planning and building control and one each about benefits, housing, antisocial behaviour and environmental health.

Decisions on complaints

Reports and local settlements

A 'local settlement' is a complaint where, during the course of our investigation, the Council has agreed to take some action which we consider is a satisfactory response to the complaint. The investigation is then discontinued.

In 2007/08 the Local Government Ombudsmen determined some 27% of complaints by local settlement (excluding 'premature' complaints - where councils have not had a proper chance to deal with them - and those outside our jurisdiction). When we complete an investigation we issue a report.

I issued no reports against your Council this year and there were no local settlements sought. I congratulate the Council on its performance here.

Other findings

Of the six complaints decided during the year, three were referred back to your Council as premature to allow the Council to investigate the complaint through its own complaints procedure. One complaint was outside my jurisdiction and the other two were not pursued because no evidence of maladministration was seen.

Your Council's complaints procedure and handling of complaints

Half the complaints decided this year (three) were classed as premature. The national average is 27% but I draw no conclusions from this because I receive only a small number of complaints against your Council each year.

One premature complaint was resubmitted to me this year but it was not pursued because no evidence of maladministration was seen.

Liaison with the Local Government Ombudsman

I made one enquiry of your Council this year which was received in 27 days, meeting my target of 28 days for response. I am grateful for your Council's assistance in this area.

I was pleased to give a seminar in February of this year to officers of authorities in the Leicestershire region. I hope those from your authority who were able to attend found it useful.

Training in complaint handling

Part of our role is to provide advice and guidance about good administrative practice. We offer training courses for all levels of local authority staff in complaints handling and investigation. This year we carried out a detailed evaluation of the training with councils that have been trained over the past three years. The results are very positive.

The range of courses is expanding in response to demand. In addition to the generic Good Complaint Handling (identifying and processing complaints) and Effective Complaint Handling (investigation and resolution), we can run open courses for groups of staff from different smaller authorities and also customise courses to meet your Council's specific requirements.

All courses are presented by an experienced investigator so participants benefit from their knowledge and expertise of complaint handling.

I have enclosed some information on the full range of courses available together with contact details for enquiries and any further bookings.

LGO developments

We launched the LGO Advice Team in April, providing a first contact service for all enquirers and new complainants. Demand for the service has been high. Our team of advisers, trained to provide comprehensive information and advice, have dealt with many thousands of calls since the service started.

The team handles complaints submitted by telephone, email or text, as well as in writing. This new power to accept complaints other than in writing was one of the provisions of the Local Government and Public Involvement in Health Act, which also came into force in April. Our experience of implementing other provisions in the Act, such as complaints about service failure and apparent maladministration, is being kept under review and will be subject to further discussion. Any feedback from your Council would be welcome.

Last year we published two special reports providing advice and guidance on 'applications for prior approval of telecommunications masts' and 'citizen redress in local partnerships'. I would appreciate your feedback on these, particularly on any complaints protocols put in place as part of the overall governance arrangements for partnerships your Council has set up.

Conclusions and general observations

I welcome this opportunity to give you my reflections about the complaints my office has dealt with over the past year. I hope that you find the information and assessment provided useful when seeking improvements to your Council's services.
